what's inside

This month's issue provides encouragement and tips for different aspects of Christian living:

- Witnessing in your community (p. 10).
- Finding age-appropriate Bibles for your children (p. 12).
- Studying your Bible (p. 16).
- Mentoring youth (back page).

Highlight these stories in your congregation's worship folder or after worship. Encourage small groups to dig deeper into these topics. Post links to the stories on your congregation's social media pages. Give ideas to school parents.

This month's WELS Connection highlights the Pastoral Studies Institute, which guides and assists spiritual leaders from a variety of countries and cultures through preseminary and seminary training. In Forward in Christ, you'll meet Damion Glisper, a Pastoral Studies Institute student in the Joshua Urban Ministry Program (p. 19).

EXPLORE FEBRUARY 2024 ARTICLES

A new column, "World news & commentary," looks at current events and offers thoughts on how we, as Lutherans, can apply those events in our lives and ministries (p. 22).

A former Mormon shares how the Holy Spirit worked through his study of God's Word to allow him to see the truth (p. 7).

"Satan loves me"? A bumper sticker causes FIC's executive editor, James Pope, to reflect on the true definition of love—Jesus (p. 34).

"WHAT IF IT'S true..." virtual Bible study

Read this month's study (p. 32) and participate in a live Bible study with the author on Feb. 20.
